November 2009

A NOTE FROM PRINCIPAL LAURA WANSTREET

Each year, our Elementary Leadership Team takes time to analyze our AIMS results and other student achievement data the teacher gather to create a goal for the year. This goal is designed to increase student achievement and drive our teachers' professional development for the year.

As we looked at our data, we could see how our students have grown in all academic areas. The way we structure our curriculum and ILPs promotes academic success. One area we examined closely was writing. Although most of our students are good writers, we feel strongly about wanting to create great writers! So, this year our school goal is focused on the area of writing. We are implementing strategies that ask students to take time to think, plan, and improve upon their ideas. These strategies can apply to anything students are working on, but will also enhance their writing.

This quarter, teachers will be modeling their own thinking process, giving students many opportunities to think, plan, share and improve upon their ideas. At home, you can support this by trying these ideas:

- When presented with a problem to solve, say, "Let's think about that," and give some quiet time to think.
- When you are solving a problem or making a plan, try "thinking out loud" by saying things like, "Hmmm, this recipe is for four people, but we need to make if for eight. Let's think... It seems like I need to double the recipe to make sure I have enough!"
- Ask your child to tell you their plan prior to them actually doing a project and ask them questions about their plan.

We are excited about developing our students as thinkers and great writers!

On another note, going along with our discussions from earlier newsletters about curiosity and creativity, I also wanted to share an article I found on motivating students: <http://www2.scholastic.com/browse/article.jsp?id=1304>

As always, I would love to hear from you about how these ideas are going in your home. Feel free to call, e-mail or stop me when you see me at school.

Thank you for your continued support.

5-6 News

Medieval and Technology usually don't go together in the same thought, but in our 5-6 Project Group unit students will see the connection. In this unit, students will be integrating content in the areas of Mathematics, Language, Technology, Science, and Social Studies to create catapults, castles, and suits of armor. Each project will have set design parameters in which the students will use their content knowledge, creativity, and problem-solving skills to create, design, build, test, and evaluate their projects. Math skills will include scale and proportion. Language skills will involve research and writing. Technology will be used to create a podcast. Social Studies will examine the history of the medieval period, and in Science, physics concepts will be implemented in the construction of the various projects.

DON'T MISS JOSEPH!

With "a crash of drums, a flash of light," "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat," an internationally acclaimed musical extravaganza, explodes on the stage when Horizon Honors High School presents its five show run beginning November 12. The first collaboration between Andrew Lloyd Webber and Tim Rice is outstanding entertainment for the entire family. Joseph... is a fun, upbeat adaptation of an ancient story of a young man sold into slavery by his own jealous brothers. His gift of interpreting dreams catches the eye of the Egyptian Pharaoh and he eventually predicts and saves the country from a terrible famine. Set to an engaging abundance of musical styles, from country-western and calypso to bubble-gum pop and rock 'n' roll, this tale emerges both timely and timeless.

"Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat" opens Thursday, November 12 with a matinee performance at 3:30 p.m., followed by matinee and evening performances at 3:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. both Friday and Saturday, November 13 and 14. Tickets go on sale November 2 for $5 a seat and are available in either school office or from any cast member. Seating is limited with any remaining tickets from presales being sold at the door 30 minutes prior to each performance.

A Note from Mrs. K

On November 10, our Primary and Intermediate School students will participate in the Mix It Up At Lunch program. Why do we mix it up you ask? Every day students are left without someone to talk to, students are sitting in groups that do not include others, and someone, somewhere has something interesting in common with you that you may never know if you weren't given the opportunity to talk. In order to address some of these problems, we will be mixing it up and our student council representatives will facilitate a Mix It Up celebration in the classrooms. This is a great opportunity for our students to get to know someone new and learn fun facts about others!

This quarter, I will be visiting the classrooms to share some books that are themed around our schools values of integrity, commitment to family, and teamwork, as well as our leadership standards. I will make sure to post a list to EagleNet along with family discussion questions or activities.

Starting this quarter, I will also begin my small group meetings (see descriptions below). Groups will begin November 2 and depending on the group, we will meet various days throughout the week. Students will either meet first thing in the morning, during lunch, or during a read-aloud time during their academic day. Additional information will be provided once all permission slips are returned and the number of student participating is determined. Please see your teachers, the Elementary Office, or e-mail me if you would like a permission slip:

Divorce Group - for children who have experienced or are experiencing divorce or separation within their family
Social Group- for students struggling to find friends and feel that they "don't fit in"

Life Stress - for students who are experiencing hardship within their family, which may include financial hardship, loss of a loved one, exposure to a loved one with an illness or cancer, or any other stress that is causing emotional hardship

DON'T FORGET YOUR TAX CREDIT!

Support HCLC through the AZ School Tax Credit Program

Parents, keep a lookout for a letter in the mail from Executive Director Jan Gleeson that highlights the Arizona Tax Credit Program and our Horizon Family Activity Pass program. The Tax Credit Program allows you to direct your tax dollars to HCLC. You may direct up to $200 if you are filing single and $400 if you are filing jointly and you will get it back dollar for dollar when you file your state taxes as long as you have taxable income. You can also use the tax credit contribution as a deduction on your federal income tax.

All tax credit contributions support HCLC extra-curricular activities. Remember to ask grandparents, aunts, uncles, cousins, neighbors, co-workers and friends to consider directing their tax credit to HCLC as well. Everyone wins, especially our students!

The following are eligible for the HCLC Arizona Tax Credit:

- annual student fee
- extended school trips
- athletics fees
- intramural fees
- club fees
- general tax credit contribution

Please remember that all tax credits must be received or postmarked by December 31, 2009. You can give your tax credit by dropping your check off in our offices, mailing your check to HCLC, or you can visit our Web site and pay securely via Pay Pal at www.horizonclc.org/aztaxcredit.htm. Please include a tax credit form when mailing or dropping off your tax credit.
